

View this email in your browser

winter 2026

The Best of Both Worlds

Making every project feel like home

As an interior design firm, we’re often asked whether our expertise lies in residential or commercial work. The truth is that our work isn’t defined by typology; it’s defined by approach. At the heart of our practice is a commitment to building meaningful relationships, which is why so much of our work grows from long-standing, repeat partnerships.

Whether a project is residential or commercial, boutique in scale or guided by a strict budget, our process remains consistent. Each project begins with curiosity and discovery and unfolds through a thoughtful, disciplined design process shaped around people and their priorities. We believe great design emerges from understanding who it serves, not from the typology it falls into.

When it comes to defining our expertise, the answer is simple:

We specialize in client relationships.

Images from a PTD designed guest suite at the Westin Detroit

Images from a PTD designed private pied-a-terre

Learn More

Website

Email

Facebook

Instagram

Twitter

Copyright (C) 2026 Patrick Thompson Design. All rights reserved.

Our mailing address is:

Want to change how you receive these emails?

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe